A few words about me

My independent life began from the moment I entered the Kazan Federal University. During my studies at the Institute of Physics, I built and strengthened my analytical mindset. At the same time, I began to engage in social activities, which helped me become more responsible, acquired team management skills, knowledge of PCs (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Photoshop). Without hesitation, I began to apply the skills and knowledge acquired at the university in a new field - working as a tutor. There I learned to explain difficult things in simple language and teach other people. Thanks to a high-quality resume and study in a technical specialty, I got a job at the ANO Directorate of Sports and Social Projects. There I learned to plan my working day, react quickly to changes in the situation and make appropriate decisions. I got colossal experience in organizing transport services for Russian and global events.

Now, thanks to my high ability to learn, I tried on a new specialty - which I am incredibly happy about. This area allows me to realize my personal potential depending on external factors (be it politics, ecology or government, for example). The field of activity is really wide and has almost no boundaries, as well as a ceiling for growth.

I love traveling and am interested in music.
